

NetDragon to Back Shanghai World Expo With Information Technology

[4 May 2010, Hong Kong] NetDragon Websoft Inc. ("NetDragon", with its subsidiaries collectively the "Group"; Stock Code: 777), a leading online game developer and operator in China, announced that the company has recently been selected as the designated network information technology supporter for the Fujian Pavilion at the Expo 2010 Shanghai China.

At a recent press conference on Fujian Province's preparations for participation in the Shanghai World Expo, NetDragon officially became the sole designated network IT supporter for the province's participation in this year's Expo. During the Shanghai World Expo, NetDragon will take advantage of its network IT expertise and rich resources to support the Fujian Pavilion with services such as video promotions, an electronic bulletin board and other online features.

"We are very pleased to become the network IT supporter for our province's participation in the Expo 2010 Shanghai," said Liu Dejian, Chairman and executive director of NetDragon Websoft Inc. "This designation is a confirmation to our development over the years in addition to confidence in the Company's network IT expertise. We will do our best to support the Expo and wish it a great success."
